

Industrialist Takes Swing At BPA Rates

Future Business Leaders Install

BONNEVILLE, May 8.—New officers have been installed for the high school Future Business Leaders of America at the local school.

They include Pat Lecertua, president; Robert Bozzuto, vice president; Sylvia Baranoff, secretary; Linda Chapman, treasurer; Pamela Lecertua, reporter, and Karen Coffman, degree chairman.

Karen Griggs is retiring president.

The statement was prompted by a Bonneville power administration agreement to deliver power to the Monsanto company's electric furnace elemental phosphate processing plant at Soda Springs for 22 mills per kilowatt-hour. Monsanto currently buys power from Utah Power and Light company for slightly less than five mills.

The contract, Simplot asserted, amounts to a "25 million dollar subsidy." He added that his wet process plant at Pocatello can not now compete with Monsanto.

Simplot said he believed Monsanto "scrapped out."

Bonneville power, he said, and got the 2.7 mill rate

"because it feared the BPA would not renew its 20-year contract with Utah power."

Simplot, who serves on the board of directors of the Idaho Power company, said the utility is prepared to take care of the power needs of southern Idaho.

He suggested that power generated at BPA and Tennessee Valley authority dams be sold to private enterprise "where it belongs."

Private enterprise can build the dams," he said. "Let the government subsidize the costs allocated to flood control, navigation and other uses. Then let federal and state commissions regulate the price of the power to the consumer."

By ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON, May 6 — Uncle Sam's relief program for victims of the Good Friday earthquake in Alaska is as phony as a three-dollar bill. It has been decided that the 49th state is not as deserving of help as the country of Chile.

When Chile had a quake a few years ago, good old Uncle Sam quickly doffed his cap, donned his uniform, and gave the country his outright grant of 20 million dollars. Then he floated a loan of 100 million dollars of the American taxpayers' money for earthquake reconstruction at 4 1/8% rate of three-fourths of one percent interest, repayable in 40 years with a moratorium of 10 years on the repayment of principal.

SHODDY DEAL — But businessmen and industrialists in Alaska are being asked to pay three per cent interest on loans from the U.S. business administration, with a repayment period of one year, and a moratorium on principal and interest for the first year, and on principal for the next four years.

This is shoddy dealing with American citizens. Under the law, Administrator Eugene Foley of the SBA has the power to charge any interest he wishes, since three per cent is the maximum rate permitted and no minimum is specified. Yet Foley — and the Johnson administration — refuse to lavish our Americans the same generosity they heap upon foreigners.

NATIVES DON'T COUNT — The administration has been cold to the pleas of such as Alaska's Sen. Ernest Gruening that outright grants be made to rebuild the private sector of the Alaskan economy. Yet over the years, the U.S. has made grants of more than $2 billion dollars to 92 foreign countries to develop the industrial and business sectors of those countries. Europe is fat and prosperous today because its economy was rebuilt with the help of nearly $3 billion in U.S. grants, no part of which will be repaid despite the continent's bulging pocketbook.

Apparently, the Alaskans' handicaps are that their accents are foreign ones. Through fiscal year 1963, the U.S. lent $56,193,369 to 38 foreign countries on terms of three-fourths of one per cent interest, repayable in 40 years with a 10-year moratorium on principal repayment.

This, of course, is only a part of the more than $10 billion Uncle Sam has poured into its foreign aid program since World War II.

GIFT OF HARD CASH — These loans are, in fact, grants because of the financing vagaries involved. For each loan, the U.S. makes at three-quarters of one per cent, it must borrow money at slightly over two per cent. Thus the 100 million "loan" to Chile represents an outright grant of 76 million.

The apology of officials of the foreign aid program that interest rates are tailored to a country's needs. This is okay, but it seems a crashing coincidence that most foreign countries wind up getting the three-quarters of one per cent size. Using the same tape measure, hundreds of small businessmen in Alaska would qualify for such loans.

This is, indeed, a strange if wondrous country. The bleeders are ready at a moment's notice to send back to money to Bolivia or Venezuela whenever those countries stick out their hands. But apparently Alaska has been disqualified on the grounds it is too American.

President Johnson has signed into law a bill giving Alaska an emergency disaster relief fund of $50 million, and is seeking another $25 million to keep the state and local governments from bankruptcy. That is still $75 million less than was allotted to Chile.

Meanwhile, Gruening is furious with Ben Clifton P. Anderson, D.N.M., who heads the special presidential commission on the Alaska quake. Gruening says Anderson is dragging his feet in attempts to get more relief for the state.

A BUDDING HIGHWAY

Development plans for highway 84 from Utah through Southeast Idaho deserve the earnest and constant attention of Bonneville county.

Soda Springs enthusiasts are bargaining the highway development program as "the main future route to Yellowstone," and well it may be.

With completion of the Interstate system, from Utah and the new Yellowstone highway from Idaho Falls to Ashton; the Upper Snake River valley will become one of the Intermountain area's main tourist byways. Both Yellowstone and Teton national parks are the pot of gold at the end of this rainbow as well as gateways to Sun Valley, the fabulous Salmon river country, and, of course, both wings of the Snake River into the high country.

It has not always been so. Highway 89 from Utah to Jackson Hole has been the main road to Jackson and colorful Jackson, Wyo. Both the resourceful Jacksonites and the affluent Rockefellers have applied a most beguiling and dynamic promotional formula for the area.

The budding highway 84 is another wing from Utah, and all compass points south and west, to Jackson Hole.

The highway is already paved from Wayan, Idaho to Soda Springs where it connects with the transcontinental highway 30. Part of the road from Wayan to Freedom is already paved and another big paving project is due this year. And Freedom is the major storage point with highway 80 to Jackson Hole.

The highway committee of the Idaho Falls Chamber of Commerce has done yeoman duty trying to interest Bonneville county and the state highway department in this little subcom-pany highway. We hope the new north-south route into the upper valley will be a service of considerable value to ranchers along this now paved road. It may not have top priority now—but here's one to watch and work on... and to pluck at the earliest ripening.—Idaho Falls Post-Register.

KEEP SOLICITORS OFF HOME TELEPHONES

Boared by the legislative wags a year ago, the interim committee limps along without funds, office or probably its own telephone, but it does cling to one high purpose, as if to life-preserving oxygenator investigation of whether phone solicitation should be controlled.

The answer is yes.

Unbelievably, a female voice called our home one night this week—at dinnertime, predictably—and said "probably from a phone booth." This is a survey for the state of Washington. How do you feel about telephoning the home to solicit business?"

Like a shot we fired our act speech: "This is a private phone. Sorry, but I never respond to telephone solicitation." In the backwash of an otherwise well-acted certain irony in the call.

As those who work in homes will confirm, solicitation of roof-repair, insurance, picture, TV or other business, as well as pictures for the grimly persistent Disabled American Veterans, has gone completely out of hand and become a fuming nuisance.

If we could get as much fun as noise from the legislature, householders finally might obtain the right of privacy they thought they were paying for, all along.—Seattle Argus.

TAYLOR'S VIEWS ON

WORLD NEWS

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

The mystic who put the Minas Gerais in his bedroom died May 8, 1951. Napoleon's heart stopped 143 years ago on St. Helena after this strange adventure with the face of an eagle and the bairdo of a spaniel who once called "love" the lidar occupation, the warrior's relaxation, and the sovereign rule.

In 1754, the name Bonaparte, Napoleon, appeared in the register of Paris' new Ecole Militaire. Then while at Brienne, Bonaparte read and reread Plutarch. And the example of Alexander the Great haunted him throughout his spiteful life—this man whose genius we admire—but whose despotism we abhor.

By his 20th year his glory exceeded any expectation of a life-time. Then he took charge of Europe's destiny for 15 years before he was consumed—in the immense conflagration of his useless conquests. At 53 he had been on the British rock six years; he needed less time to conquer continental Europe. Despot, take care!

To thoroughly understand dictators one must know all the evils they cause. I know despots from the core, for he has lived under it in Musso-lenski, Italy, Hitler's Reich, and many other parts of the world. But despots need not be met in any one era or place. Always and everywhere tyrants are the same—Napoleon, Il Duce, the Fuehrer, Stalin, Mao Tse-tung, Khrushchev, Nasser, Little Caesar, and all of them.

Such men are like the first adventurous boatmen who rode the smooth river from Lake Erie to Lake Ontario. The path is broad and carried the boatman rapidly and easily. But the cat-boat of Niagara is near. The boatman—or may not—will hardly see that the current is a current of destruction. In either case it can take too late, he tries to retrieve his way, the current is too strong. More times he turns, down the gullies on the sharp rocks, and the waters with him.

With all of Castro's jibber about social justice (don't all these despots make different?) The appeasement of despots fails because apparently they are not afraid of the consequences of their acts. And when they do not fear the hand of your enemy, History is a lantern. Our own memory of history, laws in the defense of our own country is the only thing that can save us.

WASHINGTON, May 6 — The Kennedy administration, as the Johnson administration was, has been baffled about how to get Fidel Castro's communism out of Cuba.

There were poor examples. The United States was never prepared to use military force in those places except to stop attacks, invasions or takeovers. And Cuba's threatening to invade or take over anybody.

Then is the Republican council proposing to go beyond defense and into a direct attack on Cuba, in which case it would be an aggressor? No, it said: "We are not advocating hasty and improper military action against Castro."

What would "improper military action" be, an invasion? The council doesn't say. It hopefully suggests that just letting it be known that the United States is willing to use force—is probably the greatest assurance that it will be needed. So another question is raised and answered:

If Castro doesn't attack anyone and the United States isn't willing to attack him first, how is the American military force going to mean anything? The council has other suggestions.

1. Invoke sanctions against allies who sell anything to Castro. But this might hurt American alliances. Therefore, another question: Which is more important to the United States, getting rid of Castro or keeping allies?

That was when Soviet Premier Khrushchev put his missiles there, Kennedy backed him down. But Khrushchev fled with Castro remained. Any direct military action against Castro now might mean war with Russia.

Even if Russia didn't interfere, a direct attack by the American giant on the Cuban missile base without American involvement — was a disaster. He was ready to use direct action only when Cuba did become a direct threat.

That was when Soviet Premier Khrushchev put his missiles there, Kennedy backed him down. But Khrushchev fled with Castro remained. Any direct military action against Castro now might mean war with Russia.

Even if Russia didn't interfere, a direct attack by the American giant on the Cuban missile base without American involvement — was a disaster. He was ready to use direct action only when Cuba did become a direct threat.

But the council says, such a government should equip an army. It couldn't do so without American help or get to Cuba without American transportation. And such an army would be worthless unless it goes to Cuba to invade.

But suppose Castro beat the brains out of the invaders. Would the United States then step in to save them by direct intervention or could it bring back — to do in the Bay of Pigs. And what would Russia be doing all this time?

It must be clear, understood by the world, the United States is prepared, as a last resort, to use military force to remove intervening in Cuba.

Air Force Is Undecided About UFO

GREAT FALLS, May 6 (UPI)—The Maltese Cross air force base information office Tuesday denied published reports that the air force had concluded the "flying saucer" seen at Camp Foley, "flying saucer" was an alien to the older children, or to younger ones.

An air force spokesman said, "We are not in a position at this time to say whether it was a hoax or anything else."

The five-man evaluation team, he said, that flew to the scene where the unidentified flying object was allegedly seen by several youngsters, will submit its findings to the project bluebook officer at air force headquarters in Washington, D. C.

The information spokesman said that officer will further investigate and evaluate the case and was expected to have some conclusion at some future date.

POCATELLO, May 6 (UPI)—A man and a woman will be at auto-driving-as-a-highlight-of-police-week here next week. They will be watching for instances of safe and courteous driving awards to the two winners who will be presented at a meeting of the Fraternal Order of Police May 14.

BOISE, May 6 (UPI)—Peter Blewit Sons company, Twin Falls, submitted a low bid of $407,425 for a highway project between Pocatello and the Wyoming line. Work involves construction of roadway and drainage structures and a plant mix bituminous paving on 14 miles of U.S. 90N.

POCATELLO, May 6 (UPI)—A 45-year-old ex-serviceman was sentenced to appear in justice court here today for arraignment on a charge of assaulting a 14-year-old Pocatello girl last October. Dumont was returned to Pocatello Tuesday from Teton where he was captured by an off-duty policeman. Dumont lists his home as Boise, had been listed on the FBI's "most wanted fugitives" list and had been the object of a national search following the beating of Ann Lucinda Sahlberg at Pocatello on Oct. 30, 1951.

POCATELLO, May 6 (UPI)—Pocatello's union garbage collectors scheduled to return to their job Thursday, bringing an end to a 20-day strike against the City Rockingham Company. James Doss, president of the Teamsters Union Local 683, said striking drivers voted unanimously to return to work after Rockingham agreed to pay all costs of a workers' health and pension plan. Doss said a dispute over the welfare plan had been the stumbling block in efforts to negotiate a new contract.

BOISE, May 6 (UPI)—A district court decision ordering a county farmer to destroy a dam he had built on Granite Creek was affirmed Tuesday by the Idaho supreme court. Garnett was assessed $20 actual damages and $1 punitive damages for building the dam and was later fined an additional $500 for rebuilding it after the judgment had been returned against him. The high court agreed with the district court decision that construction of the dam interfered with prior water rights held by Wesley Ward, Robert Ward and Chester Bullers, plaintiffs in the case.

BLACKFOOT, May 6 (UPI)—Voters in the Snake River school district passed a $25 mill increase in the school taxes at a special election yesterday. The school board requested the special levy to balance the budget and to provide needed classroom equipment.

Argentines Snarling at U.S. Envoy

Buenos Aires, Argentina, May 6 (UPI)—A resolution is before the Argentine senate requesting the government to expel U.S. Ambassador Robert McClelland because of a comment he made about the cancellation of Argentine contracts with U.S. oil companies.

The resolution, submitted Tuesday night by five senators from President Arturo Illia's People's Radical Civic Union, accused the ambassador of interfering in Argentina's internal affairs.

McClelland had planned to leave Argentina Sunday. He is being replaced by Edwin Martin, former U.S. assistant secretary of state for Latin-American affairs.

The senators were irate over an article Saturday in the newspaper El Territorio de Rosario, which quoted McClelland as saying the U.S. was in Argentina to "keep the world" and because of the oil contract cancellations.

The U.S. embassy on Monday corrected the statement to read that "the climate for North American investments in Argentina has been adversely affected by the annulment of the oil contracts."

MOSCOW, May 6 (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev set out today on a goodwill visit to the United Arab Republic as part of a campaign to win African friendship away from both the West and Communist China.

Khrushchev and a party of 25 including Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko were sailing from Yalta on the Soviet steamer Armenia, which is scheduled to reach Alexandria Saturday. It will be the Soviet premier's first goodwill tour of an African state.

Western observers said Khrushchev's main objectives in making the trip is to counteract the effect of Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai's recent African tour.

Russia charged this week that China is trying to convince Afro-Asian peoples that the yellow race is superior to Russians and other whites.

The charge was the latest salvo in the continuing ideological dispute between the Soviet Union and Communist China. The quarrel centers on Peking's adherence to more militant policies as opposed to Moscow's peaceful coexistence.

Buhl School Hearing Set For Friday

BUHL, May 6—A public hearing on the 1964-65 budget for Buhl Joint class A school district No. 412 will be held at 8 p.m. Friday in the office of the superintendent in the high school building.

The proposed budget, which totals $587,161, is about $20,442 higher than last year's figure of $566,419. However, the district will continue to operate on the same mill levy of 41 mills. Of this, 38 mills will be for maintenance and operation and 11 mills for bond interest and redemption.

The trustees noted the local school district has received a contribution of $7,500 from an interested group of citizens to help maintain the educational program for the coming year at the same level as this past school year.

This contribution, which is already included in the budget, enabled the board to reinstate the business program in the senior high school and retain the transition room in the elementary school for the 1964-65 school year.

Rex Engelking, superintendent of Buhl public schools, announced the deadline for submitting nominating petitions for the annual trustee election on May 20, is 5 p.m. May 15. Trustees in district five will be elected to a three-year term.

Incumbent William Atkins, whose term expires June 1, announced he will not seek reelection to the board. Atkins has served on the board for 10 years and for the past few years has been vice chairman of the board.

Nominating petitions may be obtained at the office of the superintendent. They must bear the signatures of at least five qualified school electors and filed with the clerk of the board, Lois Rudy, by May 15. District five includes that part of the school district that lies south of highway 91, east of Deep Creek and west of the Clover road and extends within one mile of the Buhl city center.

Official Hits BPA Planned Power Line

WASHINGTON, May 6—U.S. Idaho's public utilities commission chairman said Tuesday private utility customers in Idaho will be put in a "precarious position" if Ogem state phosphate plants switch to federal power.

Chairman Ralph Wickberg was a witness at hearings being conducted into a request for 1 million dollars to start construction of a Bonneville power administration transmission line into southern Idaho.

Bonneville already has signed a power contract with the Monsanto company of Soda Springs. This has been attacked by another phosphate producer, the J. B. Simplot company, as unfair competition. BPT offered Monsanto a 2.2 mills rate.

Wickberg told an appropriate lions committee hearing that his office made a study which showed private utilities would have excess capacity.

"All remaining classes of customers would be placed in a precarious position because of their responsibility for a larger than needed utility plant and associated costs," Wickberg said.

"This usually means higher rates for these remaining customers."

Packers Trade Ringo, Gros for Eagle Linebacker

THE TIMES-NEWS

Wednesday, May 6, 1964 17

SPORTS

GREEN BAY, Wis., May 6 (AP) — The Green Bay Packers traded veteran offensive center Jim Ringo and reserve fullback Earl Gros to the Philadelphia Eagles yesterday in exchange for linebacker LeRoy Caffey and safety in the National Football League draft next December. Ringo, 32, a seventh round draft choice in 1953 after he started at Syracuse, has been an all-NFL selection as a blocking center for the past seven years. He has not missed a game with Green Bay in the last 10 years.

Gros, 24, was Green Bay's No. 1 draft choice three years ago. A former Louisiana State star, he has served as an understudy to Jim Taylor for two seasons, carrying 77 times for 367 yards and four touchdowns.

Caffey, 23, became a starter as a left linebacker in his rookie season with the Eagles last year. A seventh round draft pick, the 6-foot, 3-inch 240-pounder played fullback and linebacker at Texas A & M. He reportedly can run the 100-yard dash in 10.1 seconds and last year returned an interception pass 74 yards against the New York Giants.

"In Easton, Ringo, told radio station WEST that he doesn't know if he will play football next year. He said he would have to discuss the situation with his wife, Green Bay coach Vince Lombardi, and Eagles' owner Jerry Wolman.

The contrast is interesting. As everyone should know Idaho currently is working under a 75 scholarship plan, gaining dispensation from the conference when it was formed last year. This was allowed since Idaho would not be playing a full conference schedule for a few years and would not be eligible for the title. In the meantime it was playing tough opponents, including the northern division schools and won this year.

If the conference had continued, it would have additional football scholarships instead of the other sports. It would have pleased Idaho fans to a large degree that through last year Andre was using only scholarships—and this year 11 or 12.

But while Idaho Vandals fans were Andre right up there with Moes in bringing things to a wilderness, the conference may plants the kias of death in him, it appears.

Andre is an ambitious coach. In his Idaho all right but he wants like to teach a pretty good ball club and compete against some bigger, more polished clubs still. With Green Bay others traded away in include defensive end Bill Quinn, defensive back Johnny Symon, guard Ed Blaine, center Ken Inman, ends Lee Fulkerson and Gary Kriestel, tackle Ron Gassett, and defensive back Howie Williams. Lew Carpenter, Nelson Toburen and Ben Agajanian have retired.

The new conference ruling allows all member schools 20 scholarships for wrestling and largely cur sports. It would be a good idea that were any one of these schools independent it would not do that many. This particular case, as this spring again has come, is not situated in the state of Washington, Oregon, California, or Nevada. It also gives those same schools another talking point in pulling Idaho from future planning plans.

Sternberg to Be On Finnish TV

HELSINKI, Finland, May 6 (AP) — Brian Sternberg, the former pole vaulting king who still is in a wheelchair after a serious accident last July 2, arrived here Tuesday at the invitation of the State-TV Finnish television company.

Sternberg, who was accompanied by his father, Harold, is scheduled to appear Wednesday on a television program to help boost public donations to the Finnish Olympic team for the Tokyo Games next October.

It is easy to see why the other schools would adopt a policy as it would take considerably more effort to add up to Idaho than it would simply leap Idaho down.

The thing that puzzles here, however, is that Idaho State has consistently been building its grid program and improving its schedule as much as it can. It is finding difficulty in breaking the "name" schedules as the schools don't like this "nothing to gain, everything to lose" attitude. Idaho State, given a break or two, is not reaching its plateau.

Idaho and Montana State had "name" schools on their schedules and again would have to build a great deal of strength. Only Weber, the school of the bunch, has not long way to go.

There is, it is realized, no guarantee that Idaho can maintain its momentum. It may all depend on coach Andre. If he is the next coach to fall flat again. But if he keeps his football team in existence, his fortunes also can be predicted. Good Washington, Oregon, and Idaho Whithorn, Pennsylvania, etc.

Yanks Down Tigers 4-3 in 10th Inning

NEW YORK, May 6 (AP) — Tony Kubek's triple and a single by Bobby Richardson scored the winning run in the 10th inning and gave the New York Yankees a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers. The lead—gained with dramatic suddenness as Kubek lined a shot to right center field with one out in the 10th and raced around to third. Then Richardson stroked the first pitch to him through the left side.

Kubek, 24, was Green Bay's No. 1 draft choice three years ago. A former Louisiana State star, he has served as an understudy to Jim Taylor for two seasons, carrying 77 times for 367 yards and four touchdowns.

Caffey, 23, became a starter as a left linebacker in his rookie season with the Eagles last year. "In Easton, Ringo, told radio station WEST that he doesn't know if he will play football next year. He said he would have to discuss the situation with his wife, Green Bay coach Vince Lombardi, and Eagles' owner Jerry Wolman.

Ringo said that if he had to trade the Eagles would be his No. 1 choice because he felt they are a growing team in the league's Eastern division and they come from an area close to his home. Ringo lives in Palmer Township near Easton, about 40 miles north of Philadelphia.

But being with a team 11 years and realizing you are no longer a member is quite a problem," he added.

Eagles coach Joe Kuharich was elated with the trade, the fourth the Eagles have made in the last two months.

The trade is "a terrific boost to the Eagles offense," Kuharich said.

The trade of Ringo leaves the Packers without an experienced center, although offensive tackle Bob Skoronski can fill in at the position.

Burling a future trade the top candidate for the center position will be rookie Ken Bowman of Wisconsin and Turnley Lomax of Wisconsin.

The departure of Ringo and Gros will depend on the number of veterans of the 1964 pack.

Playing club still with Green Bay. Others traded away in include defensive end Bill Quinn, defensive back Johnny Symon, guard Ed Blaine, center Ken Inman, ends Lee Fulkerson and Gary Kriestel, tackle Ron Gassett, and defensive back Howie Williams. Lew Carpenter, Nelson Toburen and Ben Agajanian have retired.

Many Pole Intellectuals Protest Red Suppression

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK. May 6 (UPI)—An amazing protest against censorship and restrictions on cultural freedom recently was signed by 84 of Red Poland's top scholars, religious leaders, scientists, poets and journalists.

The protest, unprecedented in its scope, is more proof—if proof is needed—that the spirit of freedom is still alive behind the iron curtain despite decades of communist rule.

And the government's prompt reaction is proof, if needed, that there is very little freedom indispensable to progress and national welfare.

Intellectuals in all fields of work for printing books and magazines and increasing press censorship endanger "further development of Polish national culture," the protest said. "The influence of public opinion, the right to criticize freedom of discussion and access to drawn by the communist censor writer Melchior Wańkowicz were at the last moment canceled.

Scheduled programs by Profes. Stepiński and the notedic and literary historian Jan Kot was killed after it was already in print. Kot, who was scheduled to go to Paris to receive a literary prize for his essays on Shakespeare, also had his passport withdrawn.

The ill and aged Blonimski was even refused emergency treatment in a government hospital.

Yet so strong is the urge for freedom and human decency behind the iron curtain that "most of the 84 intellectuals and church leaders withdrew their signatures from the protest despite the greatest pressure by the Red regime."

It is no longer American policy to port to the heroic men and women who carry on their fight for freedom.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

WEDNESDAY, May 6 — Born today, you have a highly acquisitive, investigating mind. There is nothing you enjoy more than uncovering the hidden truth about people. Indeed, it is helping you to uncover that truth for themselves. You cannot bear self-deception, though you understand very well that what one knows of oneself, one may not want everyone else to know.

Being of a highly contemplative turn of mind, you have no doubt developed powers of concentration quite out of the ordinary. You are interested in the occult and the mysterious, but because your approach is entirely scientific rather than emotional, you are able to use these interests to your own advantage rather than have them use — and possibly control — you.

You do not make true friends easily, but those whom you do accept into your small inner circle are most likely to become lifetime associates, close friends. You keep a sense of analysis, your knowledge of which is basic to man's happiness, and your willingness to make adjustments and allowances should enable you to make a lasting and happy marriage.

Among those born on this date are Aram Khachaturian, Russian composer; Sigmund Freud, father of psychoanalysis; Orson Welles, actor, producer, director, author.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birth day and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

RUPERT, May 6—Mrs. Hazel Milner, chairman of the 1964 Rupert Rodeo queen contest, issued a call this week to young women in the county to enter.

Miss Hunter announced that all local unmarried young women between the ages of 18 and 25 are eligible to enter the competition. The contestants are disqualified if they have been married.

Qualified girls may get entry blanks at the Chamber of Commerce anytime until May 23.

A committee, composed of Rex Rasmussen, Seth Rasmussen, Otto Kendall and Roger Thompson, is scheduled to select the contestants in riding last month.

The contestants are then selected to compete on Jan. 21, in the annual riding competition. Featured during the Sunday afternoon event will be the Sage Riders, Postville.

The contestants for the queen will be judged 60 per cent on appearance and 40 per cent on popularity vote at the jamboree.

The 1963 Rupert rodeo queen will be crowned "Dixie" Queen of the Jamboree, June 27. She will officially take over her reign from the 1964 queen, Bettie Muleman, during the July 4 performance of the rodeo.

Fifth Yearly Citizenship Program Held at Hailey

SHOSHONE, May 6—Thirty-one students were graduated at the fifth annual Blaine LDS Stake seminary graduation Sunday evening at the local LDS church.

The students are from Hailey, Carey, Shoshone and Richfield. Prof. Carl H. Jacobs, Rick's college, Rexburg, was the main speaker. He admonished the youths to continue to search the scriptures and pointed out the superiority of students at Rexburg who had taken seminary in high school.

The professor said: "A knowledge of the scriptures is the biggest asset there is for a student, for in the scriptures is the key to our exaltation."

"There is no other name whereby man can be saved, save it by the name of Jesus Christ," the speaker said, "and the Book of Mormon is a second witness that Jesus is the Christ."

Douglas Hansen, Shoshone, stake seminary coordinator, conducted the meeting with President Delphin E. Hiatt presiding.

Gordon Croft, Shoshone, gave the welcome address. Seminary youths speaking were Kenneth Mecham, Carey; Julia Hall, Hailey, and Geanie Cope, Shoshone.

Karen Hansen played a piano solo and Joan Larson was vocal soloist.

Mrs. Vern R. Thomas accompanied Miss Larson and played congregational music.

President L. S. Adamson, Carey, spoke briefly, stating so percent of Blaine stake youths attended seminary this past year.

D. V. Dudson, Rupert, area seminary coordinator, told of educational opportunities provided by the church and asked the youth to continue in schools of higher learning, remembering to also continue in a study of scripture.

Vern L. Thomas, local seminary instructor, presented the graduates for graduation. President Hiatt awarded the diplomas.

Prayers were by Michael Gracey, Hailey, and Linda Simpson, Carey.

Other teachers of seminaries for the stake, besides Mr. Thomas, are Mrs. Emma Flavel, Richfield; Mrs. Muriel Sparks, Carey, and Mrs. Barbara Cisco, Hailey.

Four-year seminary students are Connie Bush, Geanie Cope, Michael Gracey, Beckie Johnston, Kenneth Mecham, Vernon Perron, Amy Pyrah and Keith Thomas.

Third year students are Phillip Adamson, Mary Lee Barto, Hal Bingham, Sharron Hubbell, Karen Crowley, Stanley Dilworth, Rev. Doris, Julia Hall, Karen Hansen, Joan Larson, Nola Montgomery, Linda Simpson, Lowell Ward and Steven Thorne.

Those who had taken seminary two years include Jeanne Buhler, Velva Casper, Gordon Croft, David Rands, Linda Sanders and Melvin Trammell. First year students are Karen Griggs, Karen Borenson and Marilyn Silve.

Dancers Will Perform for Basque Event at Ketchum

KETCHUM, May 6—Tentative plans for the Oinkari dancers to give two shows at this year's Basque festival were made at a special meeting of the board of directors of the Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce at the home of the festival chairman, John Sabala, Saturday evening.

Joe Larangan, master of ceremonies, and Robert R. Glenn also attended.

The Basque dancers appearance here will be their first after returning from dancing at the World's Fair in New York City. Their first dance will be held June 27 in the school gymnasium, with a second dance to be held on the golf course at Warm Springs Ranch Inn, Sunday afternoon.

The board named Glenn chairman of the advertising committee. Bambazon Lamb will be served at a special meeting of the board of directors of the Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce at the home of the festival chairman, John Sabala, Saturday evening.

Planning of Large Formal Weddings Requires at Least 3 Months' Work

While it's true that many weddings take place with a minimum of advance planning, because of the bridegroom's sudden departure to the armed forces or an unexpected business relocation, a large formal wedding requires at least three months' work.

There are hordes of details to be arranged, decisions to be made, shopping to be done, and housing to be found, all of which takes hours of time.

Bridal consultants suggest this sort of timetable, adjusted, of course, to your own individual situation.

Three months before the wedding:

Decide on the type, size, location and time of day of the wedding.

Invite the members of your wedding party, with due regard to their commitments to studies or jobs.

Call on your clergyman with your fiance to set the wedding date. This also gives the clergyman an opportunity to counsel with you. After this visit, the church secretary will reserve the church, organist and sexton for the occasion.

Draw up your guest list, and decide which guests will be invited to the reception. You plan to limit the group, maybe a sole woman, since you will have your fiance's list as well. Distant relatives to consider, and painful moments as you shift individual names to second priority.

Decide where the reception will be held, and what the menu and other arrangements will be. Since the bride's family pays for the reception, it is imperative that the family's financial circumstances govern the elaborateness of the reception.

Choose your wedding dress. This decision is made easier if you consult bridal house advertisements in advance to get some ideas of style and price.

Order your invitations and personal stationery, bearing your future name. Informals are invaluable, carrying either your married name or monogram.

Begin to choose patterns for china, silver and glass, and register them in the gift registry of your store. This is a less commercial move than it appears, for gift givers want to present you with something compatible with your tastes, and prefer you give some indication.

As soon as you have chosen your new home, make up a floor plan to carry with you when you go furniture and rug shopping.

Be sure to include height of ceiling, as well as other dimensions. Many large chain department stores have free interior decorating services which can advise you. Don't hesitate to take advantage of them, for they are usually practical, rather than fanciful.

Begin your trousseau shopping. Suggest both mothers shop for their gowns, which should not only be harmonious to each other, but should blend with your color scheme for the bridal party.

Two months before the wedding:

Finish addressing invitations or announcements.

Select gifts for your attendants.

Continue the other activities begun a month ago which are so time-consuming.

Go with your bridegroom to get the marriage license.

One month before the wedding:

Have the final fittings on your gown.

Arrange to have your portrait taken when the gown is ready.

Mail your invitations and prepare a check list as reception acceptances arrive. Give this later a general idea of the number of guests expected.

Check on the bridesmaids' dresses and accessories.

Plan your church music and floral decorations.

Arrange accommodations for a luncheon for your bridesmaids and a reception dinner. The wedding party plus both sets of parents will be included in the latter.

Two weeks before the wedding:

Write thank-you notes.

Arrange a seating plan for reception guests. If you plan to have an interior table, write out place cards. The parents may sit at the bride's table with the wedding party, or may have a separate table.

Send wedding announcements and a good photograph to the newspaper.

One week before the wedding: Give yourself the final figure on reception guests.

Ask a friend to be on hand for last-minute telephone calls and wires, and expedite the reception.

Rehearse your wedding ceremony, so all will go smoothly.

Your wedding day:

This is a day in which to forget all about the detailed arrangements you've been working on for months. Let someone else worry about last-minute changes and be your happiest and most glowing.

Clothes Should Have Extra Care

Young couples who have to watch closely over the clothes budget would do well to take tender, loving care of their suits and coats to lengthen their years of wearability.

A brush with bristles specially designed to pull the tiniest bit of lint out of the wool pile will keep garments looking fresh and lengthen the time between trips to the cleaner.

According to Jan Hanum, vice president of a British firm which has been brushmakers to royalty since 1777, natural bristle brushes have a long life span, and at the same time are inexpensively priced.

A popular brush is labeled a tended for cashmere garments, but highly useful on any wool or even silk, because its bristles are soft.

A brush with bristles of bahia fiber from Brazil does well on tweeds, because the bristles are sturdy and stiff, but it's equally good on all but the most perishable upholstery.

A hat-and-cloth brush is another all-purpose possession, particularly good for men's clothes and headgear. And a department is a coathanger of metal, which folds into a brush very handy for the hall coat closet.

The auto industry's highway safety committee estimates that by 1963 between 13 and 15 million cars will be equipped with seat belts—some 20 per cent of the passenger cars then expected to be on the road.

Choose Glassware Carefully

The stemware departments in local stores glister and gleam with glasses and goblets in an absorbing variety of designs and hues.

How to choose basic pieces from all this glitter.

If you can afford it, choose crystal for your special table settings. The added lead content in the glass gives it sheen and weight. To see if it is truly crystal, flick a goblet with a fingernail, and listen to the musical tone.

Your choice of pattern is an individual one, but at the outset much as you are taken with the blue sandwich glass goblets or a two-tone etched wine glass in shades of ruby, it might be wise to start simply, with clear crystal. One member of the family might like to give you a set of goblets in color.

Basic crystal pieces might be six high-ball size tumblers, with weighted bases, which can serve as waterglasses; six sherbet glasses which can double as wine glasses until the proper smaller wine glasses are available, and six juice glasses.

Making your wedding plans will be easy and a lot of fun if you

Keep Good Stock of Staple Foods

Whether marketing day is on Saturday, or in a hurried half-hour on the way home from work, it's important to see that the staple section of the cupboard is never bare.

Keep on hand a selection of canned mainstay meals, such as beef and lamb stew, chicken fricassee, and various hashes. These can be doctored up with vegetables when there's a press for time.

Soups double as a first course for dinner as well as being easy sauces for any number of casseroles.

Non-fat dry milk is economical for cooking and drinking. Small cans of vegetables come in handy when there's no time to prepare frozen or fresh ones, as do tiny cans of fruit, to serve solo, or over ice cream.

Tomato sauce and paste and canned mushrooms stand available for a quick spaghetti dinner.

And in the dessert category, instant puddings and jello mean effortless desserts.

Fit Luggage To Method Of Travel

What kind of luggage should go with you on your honeymoon?

It depends entirely on your method of travel. Pullman type bags which permit you to draw out without folding—little, big—suitcases—are good choices for car or plane travel, but can be an overwhelming nuisance on a train trip, where there's little room for luggage storage, or on a ship.

Most novice travelers tend to buy too-large suitcases, and then find them awkward to pack, and unwieldy to handle. Also, if a suitcase is not completely filled, the clothes inside will slide, and pick up wrinkles.

A better choice would be two medium-size overnights plus a train case, if you're going to a

Silver Is Designed For Beauty

The selection of a silver pattern for your place settings is a procedure that can't be done in a split-second rush.

If your choice is sterling, your selections will undoubtedly last a lifetime. And even plated silverware, now has a long life span.

The dazzling designs created by silversmiths range from ornate, repousse handles, to knives and forks with handles so slender and tapering that they are little bigger than a fork tip.

Simplest way to decide among this infinite variety is to choose what is personally appealing to your taste, rather than giving any concern of your future way of life—which doubtless won't be static.

Elaborately curved and ornate silver takes kindly to meat on a dinner leaf table in modern apartment. Unfinished silver whose design is based on the severe pewter knives and forks of Puritan days will mix happily with flowered china.

So that you have time to consider the pattern of your choice,

Women Guests Should Wear Hats at Weddings

Should women guests at a wedding always wear a hat or a veil to the ceremony?

The answer is yes, with very few exceptions. Only in Congregational, Unitarian and Mormon services is no head covering required.

In churches of other denominations, a head covering is either required, or usually worn through custom.

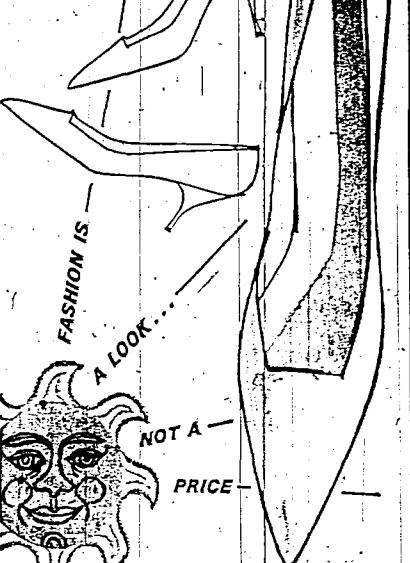

Send for folders from silversmiths, or pick up a booklet at your jewelry store. These you can study at home, eliminating those which do not please you; then, there will be less weighing off choice when you see the patterns in the store.

Decide, too, if you wish the place setting monogrammed and whether to use a single initial or three. Advise the store of your selection and choice of monogram to your friends, may add to your silver gifts.

Very much as you would choose a painting because of its appeal, rather than any connoisseur's knowledge, you will select your silver because to you, it is beautiful.

MOTHERS ARE In Forefront Of Fashion

Creator of wedding fashions have come to the rescue of that sometimes desperate woman, the mother of bride or bridegroom.

Destined, in years past to find nothing more interesting to wear at the wedding than lace lace, the now can be seen in the forefront of fashion.

"Beige has been done to death," says one sympathetic designer, "though sometimes it can be combined with off-beat colors."

He has been busily creating long gowns for mothers very much keeping with the bride's own gown. Fabrics may be identical, with mother wearing a light turquoise linen dress, and daughter in the traditional white, also linen.

Another designer, sympathetic to mothers and even grandmothers, has been doing a great deal with lace. Colors may be springtime pastels or strong shades.

For grandmother, he has long gowns of softly draped chiffon. One style has a bolero jacket with attached back panel for softness. Cap sleeves prevail. Often beaded trim of pearl and crystal dyed to match the gown is used for a waistband and for neck ornamentation. Royal blue, purple and lavender are favorites for grandmother.

If a short dress is preferred, some designers offer a street-length gown with a simulated bolero, lifted above the belted waistline. There's just the suggestion of a sleeve. Swiss embroidery on net or organza are favorites.

Freeze leftover red or green peppers to use later in salads. To prepare, slice peppers in narrow strips and wrap amounts suitable for one or two meals in aluminum foil.

CAREFUL ATTENTION TO DETAIL is important when a wedding portrait is being taken; be both the gown and the wearer will look their best. Here John Howell, Winona, Ill., photographer, takes time to adjust the bride's veil. There are three elements that guarantee the perfection of a wedding photograph. They are the trend toward natural, rather than stereotyped, portraits; vast advances in photographic techniques and today's high-fashion wedding gowns; designed for elegance.

Apartment for 2 Needs Plenty of Storage Space

The way the ads offering apartments are phrased and the way the apartments actually look are often a study in confusion for the novice apartment-hunter.

In fact, what with all the abbreviations the ads carry, the confusion may be doubly compounded.

For instance, what is the true look of a "new elev. air-cond. sound-deadened apt., 2 rms and $3 from '65?"

Translated, it means that the building (not the elevator) is new and air-conditioned, and that the stair landings are covered so there's no clicking of heels (this must be for those who aren't using the elevator), and the two rooms are more than likely to be one large kitchenette (14') and bath (4'), adding up quite logically to 2.

Ads saying separate kitchen probably mean kitchenette, in your hometown vocabulary, and often a dressing or sleeping alcove is called a separate room when it isn't.

If you can accept this shrinking of the walls, and imagine yourself at home with triple and col' bath (fireplace and colored tile in the bathroom), you'll be a contented city dweller.

Biggest trial in an apartment seems to be the determinedly contained lack of space for possessions. So in your home-hunting, count closets and storage shelves with care. You don't need yards of work space in the kitchenette, but you may need as many cupboard doors as you can get. If you sleep on a studio couch, there must be a place for daytime storage of linens and blankets.

If they don't exist, what can you build in? Can you put extra rods in the bathroom and inside the closet door? Will a cupboard fit into the kitchen?

To remove crayon or pencil marks from vinyl surfaces, dampen a soft cloth with lighter fluid and rub marks lightly. They come off easily, with no damage to the vinyl.

wife on Narrow Budget Must Use Brain in Buying daily newspapers, advises Mrs. Addis.

If she has free time, and if the weekly budget will take it, she can buy specials in quantity. And though a half-cent saving doesn't seem like much, it pays to invest in the "I for 4¢" and "3 for 1¢" items.

Until the new shopper has gained some experience, Mrs. Addis recommends the under-buy and buy later that she study the sales circulars well, then disintegrate eye before she begins to fill her shopping cart. Prospective menus can be scraped and new ones built mentally as special sale items are discovered.

With increasing experience comes increasing confidence, and the young homemaker will automatically make the choice between fresh, frozen or canned green beans, depending on the season of the year, the availability and therefore the price.

She'll also be aware that a new product that is being introduced is likely to be under-priced, and that a store's own line is likely to be cheaper than others. By then, she's well on her way to getting her degree as a wise shopper.

Some professional cooks use milk that is not homogenized in making custards or custard-type dishes. Before plunging into the intricacies of the nearest supermarket, the young bride can do her homework via the ads on special buys that appear in the

Receiving Line Is for Greetings

Though the term "receiving line" may sound both formal and formidable at a wedding reception, it actually means little more than a grouping of participants in a wedding to receive greetings from the guests.

Quite naturally, the hostess, the bride's mother is the first person the guests will meet, with her husband beside her and then the groom's parents.

The bride stands on the groom's right and next to her, her maid of honor, and then the bridesmaids.

Such a receiving line will look less stiff if there is space between the various groupings. With the current easing in formality, the fathers need not maintain their place in line, but can move about greeting guests.

Introductions do not need to present a problem, since thoughtful guests who know few in the receiving line are very likely to identify themselves without embarrassment.

Those the bride's mother knows, she can introduce in friendly fashion to the groom's parents by saying, "I want you to meet Jeanie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. White."

Budgeter Can Make Useful Gadgets for Convenience

Although hardware stores are loaded with all kinds of marvelous gadgets for better home organization, it's possible for the inventive young woman to create a number of do-it-yourself conveniences herself and from practically nothing.

To store paper bags, take a wire coat hanger, bend it way down from the hook, then turn it up about halfway from the bottom. The folded bags can slip neatly over, and then be hung out of sight in a side closet.

The next time you're cleaning easier, spread plastic food wrap on the bottom of fruit and vegetable drawers. Then you can fold up and away debris, without having to scour the bins.

Use plastic wrap, too, to cover mixing bowls and mixers, for storing bread and rolls to keep them fresh, and to house lettuce. Be sure, however, to store the lettuce unwashed, otherwise it wilts.

Save olive and jelly jars complete with tops for storing leftovers. Thoughtful manufacturers now put liquid measurements on some jars, so they can also be used for making cream sauce and salad dressings.

Need a clothes sprinkler in a hurry? Punch six small holes in the top of a covered jar, and you're all set.

Wallpaper makes an excellent valance for a kitchen window when you don't want to shut out the light by using curtains. Or make a cloth valance out of a rehemp.

Turkish towels, in addition to serving their original purpose, can be whipped into bathroom curtains or dressing table skirt.

The three species of camellias in general cultivation in the United States are camelia japonica, camelia sasanqua, and camelia reticulata.

Write Thank You Notes Carefully

Thank you notes often are written in haste and without the consideration they deserve. The girl who wants to win and influence new friends (her husband's) and forever cement the esteem of her old friends will seriously apply herself to this chore.

Even if a bride-to-be may have to scratch odd moments out of hectic preparations, it is well to send her thank you notes for shower gifts as soon as possible following the shower. This leaves the decks cleared for prompt notes of appreciation for wedding gifts within about three weeks after the wedding trip.

Simple, unadorned note paper is preferable. Neither a printed thank you or a printed message of thanks on the paper is in the best of taste. This conveys coldness and lack of real appreciation, a rather hurried something-to-be-gotten-over-with attitude.

Notes of thanks need not be long but should be personal, warm, and sincerely appreciative. For example, such as:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Smith:

John and I are enjoying the salad bowl and servers very much. We have used it almost daily since returning from our trip. I don't know whether you knew but John is an old "salad pro," and your lovely gift makes his tossing especially delightful. We both want to express our deep appreciation for your thoughtfulness and we expect to use your present to us with great pleasure for many years to come.

Our best to you both.

Most sincerely,

Mary N. Bates.

Letters of thanks should not be signed "Mary and John Bates". Mary expresses John's appreciation, but signs it herself.

The important point is that the thought and effort behind the gift be all made worthwhile by the tenor of the bride's note to the donor, no matter the size or value of the gift.

Bridesmaids' Gowns Set Trend in '64

Artful gowns for the bride's attendants are so much a part of the fashion trend in 1964 that they'll brighten many a party at future festivities.

Some long gowns imitate the bridal high empire waistline, and fall in a gentle A-line very similar to the cut of the wedding dress.

Elegance marks a more classic long bridal gown, often to be found in satin or crepe, with a gentle, batwing neckline for grace.

Other bridesmaids' dresses are quite frankly ball gowns, with a tiered back, sweeping skirt, and gently defined midriff.

For less formal weddings, where a short gown is called for, designers have created shaped silhouettes, often with interesting back features.

Floataway panels, suggesting the grace of the bride's train, have been added at shoulder height, streamers swing from the waistband, and often a loop of soft chiffon eases the severity of the back neck line.

Dress about, accenting detail at the empurple line of a short gown, tipped with a fringe on a more tailored belt, or back-bowled for a change of pace.

Fabrics are imaginative, too. In addition to the ever-popular peau de soie, there are rayon chiffons for summertime weddings; cotton filled silk-faced satins and various synthetic fibers of interesting weaves.

DIAMOND PETALLED flower pin quietly dramatizes the lace appliques on this filmy pearl de sole gown. Jewelry worn by the bride should always be relatively plain and accent the gown just enough not to take away the filmy beauty of the gown itself. Jewelry worn by the bride is usually a gift from the bridegroom or is a family heirloom.

Bride Should Make Plans For Portrait

You're sitting for your portrait, the very special portrait of you in your wedding gown.

This appointment with a photographer is a bit different from the year book type of picture-taking where pink or white velvet drapes and the inevitable strings of pearls were your only accents.

According to John Howell, Winnetka, Ill., a master photographer, there are three things that guarantee the perfection of a wedding photograph: the trend toward natural rather than stereotyped portraits; vast advances in photographic techniques and today's high-fashion wedding gowns designed for elegance.

But even with all these assurances that the bridal photographs will be beautiful, Howell emphasizes that portrait-sitting can't be accomplished in a last-minute rush.

It takes time for the photographer to arrange lights that capture depth, to balance light against shadow, to show the fabric of the gown, to decide on the facial angle which is most attractive.

"I've been perky all my life and I don't see why I should have to stop working now," she says.

Even Bill, who is 81, admits his bride has the working habit by now. She is 70.

Continued Work? Bride Has Habit

Bill and Helen Thomas are having the usual newlyweds discussion about whether or not a wife should continue to work.

Helen, manager of a cleaning shop, wants to stay on, but her husband thinks a woman's place is in the home.

"I've been perky all my life and I don't see why I should have to stop working now," she says.

Even Bill, who is 81, admits his bride has the working habit by now. She is 70.

Brides Still Use Formal Invitations

While handwritten notes inviting guests to your wedding are perfectly acceptable if the ceremony is to be small and informal, the traditional formal invitation is still used by most brides-to-be.

This can be engraved or printed in engraving style on a white, wove, or cream-colored double sheet of quality paper, which is folded and inserted in the envelope. Accompanying it is a small, separate reception card.

The folded invitation and reception card are placed in an envelope which is left unsealed and is addressed simply "Mr. and Mrs. Robinson". This envelope is then slipped into a larger one which is addressed for mailing.

Plan Wedding Trip Well In Advance

Planning a wedding trip should be a joint endeavor for the married couple long before the wedding day comes along.

Surprises, M. and M. night and day, are sometimes in store for the two when they first begin to figure, "Where shall we go?"

The hardy, Appalachian climber, it is true, for a week's vacation he finds his heart to be. He doesn't crave the solitude of a mountain cabin, but wants instead to go to a lively spot where she can show off her trotsman clothes.

There can be an embarrassing moment, too, when the man in question is forced to admit he gets seasick on any sea vessel, even a gigantic floating hotel. No cruises for him.

Apart from personality differences over the honeymoon spot, there's the practical matter of a budget to consider. With honeymoon days soon to come, there are major investments to be made, so, no matter how lovely the thought, an expensive trip is out of the question.

Time is a factor, too. Young student couples consider themselves fortunate if they can have a week-long honeymoon in the city, with the joys of room service, visits to restaurants and shops, and casual city strolling being completely satisfying.

But for those who are able to take a two- or three-week holiday, it's good sense to enlist the help of a travel agent for specific. He can guide the couple through the intricacies of first class family plus, versus economy flight; will make all the bookings at hotels, and suggest sightseeing trips for the area.

If your wedding is planned for June, with an accompanying summer honeymoon, it's imperative that travel reservations be made early. The whole world, it seems, is on the move, which means that the couple who would like to go about unchaperoned, no longer can, at popular vacation times.

Enrollment in both public and parochial schools throughout the Los Angeles metropolitan area is predicted to increase 53 per cent by 1970, reports the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Vacations In Camps Reasonable

Couples whose finances are so lightly budgeted that there's no margin for extras may feel that vacations for them are out of the question.

While they naturally haven't funds for a week at a high-powered resort, they can still take a holiday junket at little more than the price of gasoline.

To them are available the camping facilities of national parks, ranging from spectacular Olympia in the state of Washington to the moss-hung paths of the Everglades in Florida.

Add to these an ever-increasing number of state and county parks being opened each year, and an interesting vacation becomes a reality even without ever leaving your home state.

Camping facilities vary, from tent floors which can be rented for a few cents per night to modest, well-constructed houses with heating facilities which rent for a very few dollars.

For an average of a dollar a day, trailer owners or renters can park their movable houses in well-laid-out parks with every modern convenience, thus eliminating the cost of motel rooms and restaurant meals.

Available also is a tent trailer, which has a collapsible canvas top, shelves that pull out to make bunks and storage space concealed by sliding doors under the bunks.

Because of the big boom in outdoor vacations, companies are cooperating by renting all types of camping equipment. So if you don't own a tent and an air mattress—and can't borrow them—you can pay a moderate rental fee. In the New York metropolitan area, the tent trailer rents for about $50 a week. Metal trailers are more costly.

Gasoline companies estimate it costs about three cents a mile to operate a car, and less if the car is compact. So an average day's run of 300 miles on a non-toll road costs $10.00.

Shop at Different Stores When Decorating

Young brides who in part have had no more to do with decorating a home than indicating a preference for roses on their bedroom wallpaper are often at a loss when they furniture shopping for that first apartment.

What important pieces should be purchased? Should top prices be paid for some, and if so, which? Where can the corner-cutting begin?

To help the bewildered buyer, Mrs. Janice Lloyd, consulting home economist who has participated in practical programs of the American Home Economics Association, makes some suggestions for getting the most for your money:

Try for "see-it-in-your-own-home" or "return" privileges to help you avoid costly mistakes. But don't abuse the privileges.

Put more money into those things which are worth the investment because they will last longer and be easier to care for (truly scrubable wall covering for the kitchen, a really good mattress).

Remember the value of furnishings drops drastically when they are no longer new. And second-hand furniture sometimes can provide better style, materials and workmanship than inexpensive new pieces (but be sure second-hand upholstered items have been properly cleaned).

Purchase of poor quality workmanship could be a wise decision if the style is good and the item will not receive the kind of wear that would expose its weakness.

Be alert to the decorative possibilities of the inexpensive—look in the dime and drug stores as well as the well-known shoppe tags are not the arbiter of good taste.

Drug and dime stores have lamp shades, house plants, wastebaskets, inexpensive mats for kitchen towels, inexpensive foam rubber forms which can be covered for pillows and inexpensive throw pillows.

Look in these stores for the small accessories: wooden figurines, ash trays, simple figurines, picture frames, jars, vases, pitchers, trivets, tiles and pictures.

If you may move again:
Avoid extra-length couches.
Too many rooms lack sufficient

Gifts Should Be Practical For Weddings

Thoughtful friends of the about-to-be-married are aware of today's high cost of living, lead toward the practical when choosing wedding presents.

There's a wide range of helpful items available to fit the giver's budget. Here are some suggestions to use as a starter.

For $10 or less: re-chargeable flashlight, vase, knife sharpener, silent butler, thermometer and barometer set, tall salt shaker and pepper grinder in hand rubbed wood, revolving three-tier spice rack for steaks, a cook and serve aluminum platter with protecting board underneath, ice bucket, magnetized knife holder with set of kitchen knives and steak knives.

In the $20 or less field, there are: carving set, electric heating tray—foods keep warm for hours for late comers or unexpected delays, soup bowl with servers, electric blanket, carpet runner, combination electric can opener and knife sharpener, transistor radio, aluminum folding cot with foam rubber mattress—for that extra guest.

Over $20: electric food warming table on wheels, table oven, clock-radio, automatic deep fat fryer with insert basket, vacuum cleaner, blender, coffee table, floor or table lamp and small oriental rug.

SILVER WAS BROKEN

the wedding ring as a symbol of

Small Change Should Be Saved For Rainy Day

Back in pioneer days before such a thing as a bank existed, the thrifty housewife hid spare change in the family cookie jar—a rainy day.

That little habit is still a good one for young couples to imitate, particularly if they can't find larger amounts of cash to come for an emergency fund.

The change left over from a shopping trip or an evening out can be tucked away in a box in the dresser drawer. The dimes and quarters are like petty cash, available for the unexpected.

wall space or area so small that the trough is out of proportion. Sectional furniture is versatile and is now available in many different styles. Avoid pieces with arm placement that limits the ways they can be arranged. Concentrate on multi-purpose furniture which is not restricted by style to a specific room.

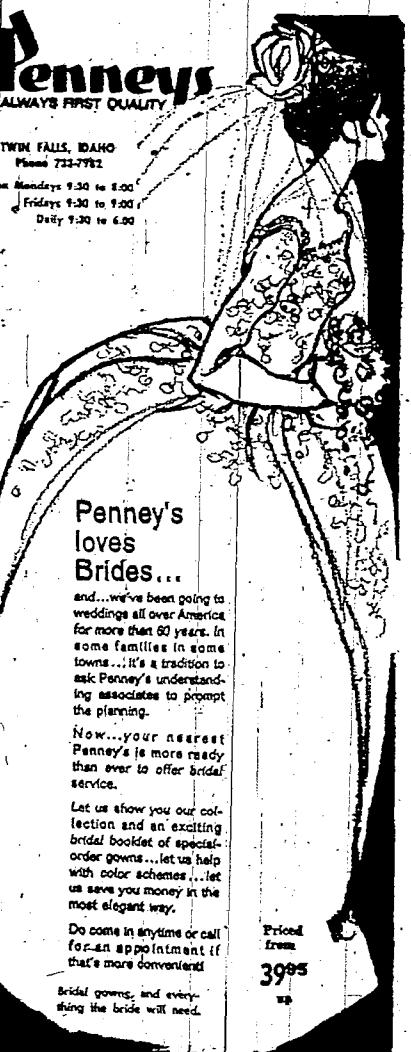

If you know you'll be using them only in one home, make draperies of inexpensive material—muslin or burlap. Or if apartment or house has venetian blinds, you might want to do without drapes.

Make shelves of bricks and boards. Use steel shelving which comes in black, gray and green enamel finishes. Use in kitchen for storing appliances, in living-dining areas for books, art objects. Store things on shelves in boxes which have been covered with inexpensive bright-colored material or wall paper.

Buy the wooden "director's" chairs with canvas seat and back. They can be used in living room, bedroom, recreation room. Use what you have, such as a footstool which has been spray-painted for a coffee table or end table; a five-gallon can, spray painted or covered with contact paper for a wastebasket. Cut up travel posters or clip magazine pictures and mat them on colored construction paper to decorate the walls.

Use adjustable shelving, 2-3 small chests of drawers, drop-leaf tables rather than large bookcases, chests and tables which offer less variety in arrangement and might not fit in a new home.

DELICATE ENSEMBLE nevertheless is fashioned for easy care, since its drip-dry silk/nylon tricot. The Alba shorts gown for young brides is topped by a colorful robe with handsewing detail on the bodices of both gown and robe.

Invitations Hold Prime Importance

Whether you're planning a small informal wedding with only two weeks in which to make arrangements, or are having a large ceremony and a country club reception, the delicate matter of deciding on the guest list is of first importance. Fortunately, the invitation serves dual purpose. For distant relatives and friends who could not possibly attend, it becomes an announcement of your forthcoming marriage.

It can also be used selectively, for you may have a church full of guests for your wedding, and invite only a fraction of them to the reception.

The larger the wedding, the sooner you must decide on the guest list, for engraved invitations, in the traditional third-person style, are prerequisite. These should be ordered at least one month prior to the ceremony.

Kitchen Utensils Are Good, Useful Gifts for New Brides

Consider having a kitchen shower for the bride.

To give her a big gift, a dozen friends can each contribute a few dollars toward it. In addition, each guest can bring a small kitchen tool as an extra present. This way the bride will have the fun of opening a lot of packages and her kitchen will be stocked with some extremely useful aids to good cooking.

Electric appliances include toaster, one that both toasts and browns. It's streamlined and doesn't take up too much space. The bride can keep it in the kitchen, casserole dish or dessert in it, and she'll use it endlessly for reheating foods. These toaster-ovens are also perfect for English muffins, biscuits, rolls and brown-and-serve breads.

Mixer, a large stationary one is a good choice, but if the bride's kitchen is small, one of the electric sturdy portable electric beaters will fill the bill.

Silillet, the temperature dial on this modern item can take the guesswork out of some of the bride's cooking. Electric sililles can be put to many uses and are attractive to serve from.

A small hand juicer is a convenience because small amounts of lemon and orange juice are called for so often in recipes. An attractive miniature cutting board and a small sharp knife are a perfect accompaniment.

A little whisk-type beater that can whip up an egg as little

possible for two-bowl cooking.

A small ceramic mortar and pestle that may be used for grinding spices and herbs is easier to clean than a marble press. These mortar and pestles are available at pharmaceutical supply houses and some specialty houseware shops. As a going-along, a bride would probably appreciate a miniature French lettuce basket in which to store garlic.

Ice cream scoop—a bride might be presented with a small and large size. There's also an up-to-date, shovel-type scoop with which the bride (or the bridegroom) could remove hard-frozen ice cream without really trying.

A set of wooden mixing spoons—the bowls of these come in various sizes, and the handles in various lengths.

A colander—nowadays these are widely available in enamelware in enormously attractive colors.

Small, rotary-type graters for cheese, nuts, parsley. Also flat small graters and shredders for lemon and orange rind, fruits and vegetables.

Measuring cups and spoons. Supply a set of metal measures ($\frac{1}{4}$, $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{3}{4}$ and 1 cup) for dry ingredients. Also a one-pint glass measure for liquids. A set of metal measuring spoons ($\frac{1}{4}$, $\frac{1}{2}$, one-half and one cup).

Pasta set—a pasta cloth, sometimes called a canvas, and a rolling-mill woven together to strip the dried off rolled, and a ball-bearing rolling-pin.

Kitchen timer—even if there's a timer on the bride's kitchen range, an extra one will be useful.

Kitchen knife—a cook's knife with a long wide blade tapering to a point is a must in a well equipped kitchen.

Refrigerator dishes. The bride will probably never have too many of these. They come in various sizes in sturdy glass or plastic or luxurious stainless steel.

Pots and pans department includes a functional and handsome tea kettle. In our opinion, those that come with a wide cover are most useful.

Mixing bowls—these come in metal, glass or pottery, in sets of three or four.

Saucepans and skillets may be had together in starter sets. If saucpans are bought individually, remember that a one-quarter and a three-quarter size are those often recommended for a bride. Deep skillets with tightly fitting covers are extremely useful with the eight and 10-inch sizes are good for a bride.

come with short or long handles and many feet handles.

Pasta set—a pasta cloth, sometimes called a canvas, and a rolling-mill woven together to strip the dried off rolled, and a ball-bearing rolling-pin.

Creamer, a cup and a two-quart, with covers, will provide for everyday and company dishes.

A double boiler of two-quart capacity.

Muffin pans—choose two nesting six-cup pans rather than one 12-cup pan. Paper cupcake pan liners come in colors and can be tucked in with this gift.

Pie plate—a nine-inch size is a good choice, if it is of oven-proof glass it can be brought to the table. Six ovenproof glass custard cups that can be used for baking and for molding gelatin dishes could accompany the pie plate.

Souffle dish—if the bride is interested in French cooking, she would appreciate a traditional white pottery souffle dish with straight sides. The size could be one or one and one-half quart.

It's no use sifting confectioners sugar before storing it in a cannister because it will pack down kind and have to be re-sifted before using.

"SAME DEALER IN THE SAME LOCATION FOR OVER 35 YEARS"

BRIDAL DESIGNER creates gowns by draping materials for a preview effect. Here Antoinette Pote considers the use of delicate lace for this formal wedding dress. Miss Pote's favorite style is the loose Empire look, with detachable train hooked on at the back of the raised line. Her second favorite is the gown that is almost completely straight.

Traditional Bridal Showers Are Still Based on Customs

Modern brides reap sizable harvests of "loot" at the traditional bridal shower.

And many have come to feel this is only fair because in their single days they gave to their friends who preceded them down the aisle.

But still there is a sentimental side to the custom, and most brides enjoy the party atmosphere and being surrounded by their close friends at this great moment in their lives. The gifts are an added bonus.

One legend which tells how the bridal shower originated concerns a Dutch girl who fell in love with a poor but charitable miller who gave most of his time to the needy. Because the girl's father did not approve of the miller, he refused to give the girl her dowry, necessary to set up housekeeping, unless she married a wealthy farmer.

Townpeople who had been asked by the young miller joined together and donated small gifts to help the couple. When massed together and "dowrowered" upon the girl, the gifts exceeded the value of the dowry she was supposed to receive.

But the term "shower" was not coined until the 1890's when someone conceived the idea of filling a Japanese paper parson, then a popular fad in interior decoration, with little gifts. The bride-to-be was obliged to open the parson over her head, resulting in a "shower" of gifts.

A bride had to have a pretty hard head even back in Roman days. At the wedding feast it was customary to break the wedding cake over her as a sign of abundance. Guests took home small brocks of cake, and eventually these tokens were invested by the superstitions with the power to make single guests dream of those they would marry. If the tokens were tucked under their pillows on the wedding night...

Brides also had rigorous going in the 14th century in Europe. Wedding guests scrambled to obtain the bride's garter, a symbol of good luck. The disheveled brides finally took to throwing a stocking instead. And with time, custom has made the event less wearing on the brides. They can just toss their bouquets today, and the girl who catches one is supposed to become the next bride.

"Giving the bride away" harks back to the days when fathers locked upon their daughters as commodities to be sold.

And the bridal veil stems from the same period when the brides' face was covered until after the business contract was secure. Then the bridegroom got the chance to lift the veil and gaze for the first time upon the face of the wife he'd bought.

Silver Plays Special Part in Marriages

Silver has played an important part in marriages through the ages and in all quarters of the globe.

According to Miss Sally Wallace, silver design consultant, at marriage in the early part of the country's founding, the criticism of the bride was the bridegroom's "downer" or silver coin.

John Bull, one of America's earliest silversmiths, was the first American father actually to place his daughter on the scales, and balance her weight with silver shillings.

Originally, gifts to the young couple were in currency. But in the late 18th century, silver was substituted, because silver plate then became available at low cost. Every wedding couple received at least one silver plated tea service.

ELABORATE WEDDING rings from centuries past carry ritualistic symbols. These antique rings are European, Jewish and Christian. On the extreme left is a replica of the temple tomb over a gold plate with the inscription "Mazel Tov," which means good luck.

Gold Band Has Honored History

"With this ring I thee wed." In hundreds of thousands of ceremonies across the country in cathedrals, chapels and homes, there comes the moment when the wedding ring, slipped on the bride's third finger by the bridegroom, symbolizes both the ritualistic and the contractual meaning of marriage.

The wedding ring has had a long and honored history, since the days when the ancient Hebrews fashioned wedding rings of gold, filigreed and richly engraved. Representations of important moments in Jewish history were painstakingly carved on the rings.

At the time of the Roman empire, wedding rings were first made of iron, gold being reserved for official ceremonial occasions. Later the rings were gold and because gold easily inscribed, they were often beautifully decorated with the bridegroom's seal, or with some inscription to the bride, or possibly to one of the gods.

Sanctioned by both church and civil ceremonies, the wedding ring became a part of the entire marriage ritual which was almost unchanged from Roman times to the 11th century.

The advent of Christianity tended to ritualize the wedding ring's use and materials. Only gold was thought valuable enough, and the third finger of the left hand was designated as the proper place.

Wedding bands varied in style through the centuries. When Prince Albert married Victoria, he put on her hand a golden bracelet in a snake composed of 14 hinged joints, 12 of which were set with diamonds.

But later in the Victorian era, there was a reaction against the highly ornate, and a general return to the plain gold band.

For the first 50 years of this century, wedding rings remained stereotyped. But in recent years, there has been an upsurge in the jewelry craft to design rings that reflect the tastes and attitudes of today's young people.

Gifts of Linen at Showers

For that blushing bride-to-be on your list, Mrs. Anne Sterling, director of consumer relations for the American Institute of Laundering, suggests giving practical as well as attractive gifts of linen.

To assure quality in the gifts you'll be giving, Mrs. Sterling has compiled a guide for buying linens.

Make sure the towels you purchase for the bride's hope chest are color fast. All towels don't hold their color well after laundering. As a further aid in choosing top quality towels, feel and pull them at different points to make sure that all sections stretch evenly. Uneven tension in the weaving process can cause towel parts to pucker or become distorted after laundering. Look for close, large, full, fluffy, and thickly packed loops, which indicate that the towels will be absorbent and will give good service.

Pastel and decorator patterned sheets and pillowcases are ideal for shower gift-giving. For quality linens, look for threads that are evenly woven and of the same thickness. Check sheeting for firm, compact selvedge edges and hemms that are smooth and straight with even stitching.

The best measure of quality merchandise is the certified washable seal of the American Institute of Laundering.

Institute of Laundering. It is awarded only to manufacturers' items that have passed rigid laundry tests.

When considering a tablecloth as a gift for the bride, first find out the size of the table on which it will be used. Many tablecloths are not washable and users can expect a certain amount of shrinkage after laundering. Also make sure that the colors and prints are colorfast so they can be laundered without fear of fading or bleeding of color.

If you're thinking of buying embroidered tablecloths, place sets of napkins, make sure you're getting embroidery. Some "embroidery" is only glued to the fabric. One washing can loosen the backing and cause the design to come off. Check the wrong side of the fabrics for embroidery threads. If they are present, the embroidery is genuine.

If you decide on a chemise bedspread for a bridal gift, check to see that the pile is securely held in place in the background fabric. If it is not held securely it may slip out.

CROSSED SWORDS

The crossing of swords originally symbolized keeping away evil spirits who were afraid of steel. Even today, in Morocco, the bridegroom (and often the bride), carries a dagger to the wedding.

Working Out Budget Can Be Hard Task

Working out a budget for sound financial living often seems to be a formidable task which can result in friction, if not downright quarreling between the new bride and bridegroom.

The categories themselves aren't complicated: salary, housing, food, clothing and so on. But when it comes to the more ticklish matter of deciding where to enter certain spending, there's need for a flexible approach to budgeting, and above all, a definition of terms.

If dinner out, or a dinner party at home, to be charged to food, or to entertainment? What does the personal allowance fund mean? Newspapers, cigarettes, or lunch on the job?

Where to put what isn't nearly as important as mutual agreement on the situation.

Next step is to rough up your budget under as few headings as possible. Banking authorities agree that if you have more than seven or eight headings, your budgeting will probably break down from the strain.

"Housing" can mean rent or mortgage payments, repair allowances, heat, light and all the elements involved in operating a home.

"Clothing" can be a lump heading for clothes for both husband and wife, and can also include dry cleaning, any laundry done outside the home, shoe repairs and the like.

"Entertainment" will cover movies, dinner out, and the usual forms of relaxation, but you may wish to expand the term to include a sum set aside for a vacation, equipment for

Bride's Clothing Remains Neat, Crisp After Trip

When the young bride - to-be goes troupe shopping, she'll find herself in a world of wonderland of clothes, that, thanks to the wonders of them, will stay fresh on a long car trip, or emerge crisp and neat after a long air flight.

Introducing raw fabric with synthesis means a linen suit, with only five per cent flax in the weave, looks like linen, but without pure linen's wrinkling properties.

Nylon manufacturers continue to improve on their fibers so they're nearly perfect imitations of silk, cotton, and even tweed.

Even pure silk clothes, which used to be so fragile now have chemical coatings added to the fabric which gives them more body.

Double-knit suits have proved to be so wrinkle-proof that it's not necessary to line the skirt to prevent bagging.

So for a modest investment the young shopper can find clothing with looks and stamina that will be the back of her wardrobe for a long time to come.

any sports activities and hobbies.

It will take a bit of trial-and-error bookkeeping before the budget allocations for a newly-married couple are made smoothly.

After that, the pair experience has been as simple people, and many times still under the parental roof without any worries over things like mortgages.

But after several months of money management, the couple can move from actual budgeting to forward looking estimates of expenditures, and the budget then becomes more realistic.

Decorator Suggests Ways to Make Home More Appealing

Furnishing that first apartment doesn't have to be a staggering task if the young couple concentrates on minimum requirements for the basic pieces and resorts to ingenuity for the finishing touches.

Says Lawrence Peabody, Boston interior decorator, "What are the needs? For the living room, something to sit on. Undoubtedly there will be an armchair, but merely an 'eating' piece. In the bedroom, something to sleep on, and something to store things in."

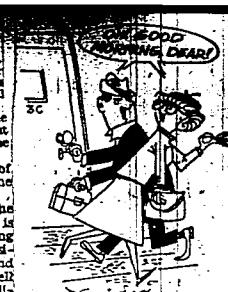

These first simple basic pieces can last for a lifetime, Peabody comments, if they are bought properly to begin with. He recommends that the young shoppers choose a neutral upholstered piece for the living room, since it's possible to tire quickly of bright colors. A good box spring and mattress are all that are needed for the bedroom. Instead of investing in a headboard, he suggests applying a sheet of fabric to the frame above the bed, and using that same material as a bed-cover.

"The fabric can be applied in a very neat way," he says, "with double-facing masking tape and the elasticized edge of the fabric's color and texture in that shade for the bedroom."

Storage needs can be taken care of by choosing basic cases, the decorator says, which can be used in any room in the house. "No longer need a case piece look like a bedroom bureau," he says. "This interchangeability is a boon to the young homeowner. Always shop and compare. Go into the finest shops and see the best. Take the pieces out and see how they work. Quality is a lesson that should be learned early."

For those decorator touches usually too dear for couples on a budget, Peabody has a host of exciting ideas:

DECORATOR'S DELIGHT and homemaker's joy are these floral patterned terry towels, a sure way to brighten any bathroom for the young bride. To fill the gaps of household linens, watch for sales. Also give attention to ads which mention slightly imperfect sheets, pillow cases, blankets and towels. The flaws are often unnoticeable, usually nothing more serious than a tiny crooked hemline.

Cutting Corners in Linen Buying Pays Off for Brides.

While most brides get many household linens as wedding and shower gifts, there are likely to be a few unmet needs.

To fill the gaps, watch advertisements for sales. Also special notice might be given to those ads which mention slightly imperfect sheets, pillow cases, blankets and towels. The flaws are often unnoticeable, usually nothing more serious than a tiny crooked hemline.

Place mats are found in cotton or the finest linen with matching napkins, colorful plastic two in the laundry, and two for emergencies. Each bed will require two winterweight and two summerweight blankets. A comforter and an automatic blanket are nice extras. Other bedding needs — two bedspreads, winter and summer; plastic zip-on mattress covers, and cotton mattress pads.

For the bathroom, an adequate supply would include one dozen each of bath towels, hand towels and washcloths; two to 10 washcloths; about six linen guest towels, three bath mats and bath sets, and two small rugs. A practical added touch — terry cloth shower robes, his and hers sizes, naturally.

Receptions Need Not Be Formal

A man who has steered many a bride and her mother through the pitfalls of a wedding reception has one succinct comment to make: "They all worry too much."

Receptions should be enjoyed, but many brides worry so much about details that they fall to enjoy their own party.

Receptions need not be stiff, formalized affairs.

A zealous photographer can become an annoyance to the wedding party unless he photographs what's happening, "not try to cause a scene to happen." The reception should not be made the scene of a photographic studio-sitting, with accompanying self-consciousness.
